Mr. Tucker's Bill.

We have heretofore fully explained the bill which Mr. Tucker recently introduced thing to do with the matter, and as to split into the House of Representatives to define the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States, and we have also fully explained Mr. Tucker's connection with it. Nevertheless, as unscrupulous partisans continue to publish downright falsehoods concerning that bill, we will again refer to the subject.

In the first place, under the Federal law as it now stands any case can be taken up port" for June, 1873. to the Supreme Court of the United States which involves a question arising under the Federal Constitution, if (for instance) the Court of Appeals of Virginia decides the law to be unconstitutional. It follows, therefore, that all the talk about enlarging the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States and subjecting Virginia and her courts to the absolute disfect, only result in expediting the getting of readjusters, remain under the obscurity one particular case involving the constitu- of their own vines and ng-frees, and in knaves these demagagues suppose them to tionality of the funding act before the Su- result of their canvass, congressional or le- be. - Virginia People. preme Court of the United States. But to make Throughout the Continent there is a sense the United States if it had come the debt question a disturbing element in of relief, and in three cities-London, Viup to the Court of Appeals from district conventions and canvass, and its enna, and St. Petersburg—there are signs a circuit court; and whenever the "funders" and "bloated bondholders" shall choose to commence a similar case in any cessful. circuit court in Virginia, it can be taken up to the Supreme Court of the United States from the Virginia Court of Appeals even if this latter court should be equally divided, as it was when the late case intended to test the taxability of coupons was before it.

The whole of this true-and-cry against Mr. TUCKER and General HUNTON is, therefore, based upon a falsehood. The bill which Mr. Hunton was requested to introduce, and duce, and which Mr. Tucken did introduce, would, if passed, allow cases to be taken up to the Supreme Court of the United States in which the highest court of any State was nated in the lower State courts or not. It would facilitate the decision of no case in which said highest court were not equally givided. Such a case could go up now. It States jurisdiction over not one single queslion touching the funding act which it does not already possess jurisdiction over. The rlamer on the subject is an attempt to injure Mr. Tucker and General Hunton, and is due either to a want of principle on the part of the clamorers or to a state of ignorance disgraceful to any man who pretends is no excuse whatever for such conduct.

Mr. Tucker's constituents will just as popularity of Mr. NEALE, his principal op-

IMPEACHMENT .- The Cincinnati Times is wroth because of the removal of Mr. Conk-LING's friends from the New York customhouse. It says:

"It may not have escaped the memory of man that eight out of the eleven articles of impeachment against Andrew Johnson were based on his unconstitutional removal of officers against the advice and without the consent of the Senate. Yet President Hayes, in detiance of the expressed will of the Senate, has taken advantage of its absence to remove the collector and naval officer of the port of New York," &c.

And it may not have escaped the attention of the Times that instead of being composed three-fourths of political villains, as in the days of Andrew Johnson, the Senate now has some thirty-seven Democrats in it. The WADES, the CHANDLERS, the CAMERONS, the SHERMANS, the WILSONS, &c., the national treasury cannot now contro! that body. But worse than all for the traitors to their country's Constitution, the House of Representatives contains now, a majority of honest and honorable men. Mr. HAYES, therefore, need not and does not fear the machinations of the unprincipled crew that almost worried Andrew Johnson's life out of him. The "stalwort" or stealwort Republicans can do him no harm. He is as much afraid of them as he is of Mr. Conkling, their leader; and how shown by kicking his tools out of office.

Let the Times not perspire too freely. There is no danger of Mr. Haves's impeachment.

"Beyond the third term," said Andrew Johnson in the last speech he ever made, "stands the Empire." - Philadelphia Times.

Well, we've had "the Empire" for sevinteen years. "Empire," indeed? In Virginia, as in her sister southern States, we have already seen legislatures, courts, and all sorts of officers, dispersed by the word, and military courts, military officers, and legislatures and State conventions elected under military supervision, substituted for the machinery of civil government.

In a word, "the Empire" could bring to the South no possible evil that it has not already suffered, and it is a roaring farce for the nincompoops who thought they "fought for hberty" when they enslaved the South to be talking about "the Empire." The Empire would be a vast improvement upon the negro-rule and carpetpagger governments which the Republican party shamefully forced upon the South.

We will get into the mysteries of the greenback question after a while. For instance, Mr. W. A. Thompson, of Jefferson county, W. Va., addressed the people of Parkersburg one night last week, and in the course of his speech proposed that the Government should issue greenbacks, which should be loaned to the States at one per cent.; the States should loan the money to Greenback party will hold its second meetthe counties at two per cent., and the counties should, in turn, loan the money to the people at three per cent .- Wheeling Intelli-

[From the Norfolk Landmark of yesterday] SUICIDE OR SAFETY ?- The State debt has no more to do with congressional elections than the man in the moon, and we are entirely opposed to its introduction in the canvass. On speculative grounds alone we should protest against it; for to drag the matter in would be equivalent to a confession that we are responsible to the public opinion of Congress for the views of our representatives on State questions. The Federal power is already so overshadowing that the absorption by it of the separate members of the confederated Union is are no longer there. Indian Frands Unearthed: DISCOVERIES MADE AT CROW CREEK AGENCY-A RECORD OF ROBBERY AND CORRUPTION. WASHINGTON, July 15 .- A letter has just een received at the Indian Office making startling disclosures of the numerous frauds practiced at the agency of the Crow-Creek Indians, Dakota Territory, during Agent Livingston's administration. Indian chiefs say that Dr. Livingston appeared at Brule Agency with a handful of of Cape May as a summer city. two-dollar bills and gave one to each of the chiefs and headmen, distributing in all about $50. The vouchers call for $539 as ownership of the yacht William Tell, which being expended in that manner. A description is given of the purchase of seven tons were on the yacht and the others on shore, of hay at $8 per ton, and accounts rendered for seventy tons at $420. The correspondent says that the Indians are much provoked at the prospect of an agent coming out, and have manifested their dissatisfaction by saving that the land between Crow-Creek agency and the James river belongs to them, and that they have a right to live anywhere upon the tract they choose. He does not think, however, that many of the Indians will leave the agency on that account. The chiefs have been questioned in relation to the immense expenditures by the Bureau for annuity goods of the last four years and in regard to their losses of cattle, and have shown by their replies that the annuity goods had not been received, and that their cattle losses were very heavy. It is stated in this connection that Dr. Livingston has a private herd of six hundred. The following statement is made, showing the difference between the amount of stock reported on hand by the agent and the amount actually found upon investigation: Tobacco reported on band, 2,212 pounds; actually found, 6,365 peunds. Potatoes reported on hand, 100 bushels; actually found, 1,200 bushels. Horned cattle reported on hand, 170 head; actually found, more than 400 head.

The document describes at length various forged vouchers as having been discovered, and sets forth that upon official investigation, from the information now in possession, those guilty cannot escape punishment. Every possible effort is being made by the Indian Office to prosecute the guilty par ies.

A special dispatch says: "Livingston began life as a theological student. He gave fonts and stained glass windows to churches during the time he was agent. He is now very wealthy, owning large landed estates, town lots, and interests in three Nevada silver-mines. In Yankton he is interested in almost every industry, and stands high. The life of General Hammond has been threatened by anonymous letters, and it is freely asserted that it will be taken if the ring can't break him down by slander and ring can't break him down by stander and force a compromise."

The Lower Brule and Cheyenne agencies have also been seized, and it is reported that a special conjuntation into their affairs, which is secret investigation into their affairs, which a secret investigation into their affairs, which is still incomplete, has developed a conspiracy between the agents and traders that even startles the natives.

The reservoirs during this hot weather are losing head daily, which is all important, particularly in the elevated narts of the city and in case of fire. In view of the It is believed here that as soon as the mint is reopened at New Orleans, and the coinage of the standard dollar begun, a channel will be opened for putting in circulation a confamily.

Which is all important, particularly in the elevated parts of the city and in case of the. In view of the above it is most urgently requested that the citizens will use every effort to prevent all unnecessary waste, and thus save the city from a possible water family.
